POLICE & CRIME COMMISSIONER

Police & Crime Plan 2013-2018

Large Print

www.northumbria-pcc.gov.uk

Foreword and Vision

My name is Vera Baird. I am a lawyer and former Minister and last November I was elected to be the Police and Crime Commissioner for Northumbria. My job is to make sure that all the people of Northumbria have the best police service possible and that citizens feel safe both at home and on our streets. Northumbria is vast: from Berwick to Sunderland and across to Haltwhistle. We are fortunate that Northumbria Police is already one of the best police services in the country, with low crime, high detection rates and a very professional but friendly approach to its role.

Crime has fallen by over 10% over the last year and in surveys you are telling us that 63% of you feel confident about how crime and anti-social behaviour are tackled. That is a good platform and we will work to make sure that even more of Northumbria's people start to feel safe and confident too.

How we intend to do that, with the police and the Community Safety Partnerships is contained in this Police and Crime Plan. I have written this Plan with your help. Many of you completed my online survey, talked to me at Metro stations or in the supermarkets where we asked you about crime and safety face to face. Some of you have been consulted through Northumbria Police and partners continuous telephone Safer Communities Safety Survey.

I have listened with great care to what you have told me are your crime and disorder priorities:

- Putting Victims First
- Dealing with Anti-Social Behaviour
- Domestic and Sexual Abuse
- Reducing Crime
- Community Confidence

Although the Police and Crime Plan is a five year strategy we will monitor how the police and others deliver it and if we need to make changes we will do so. Let us see how we can work on these priorities together.

Vera Baird QC,
Police and Crime Commissioner

1. What does the Police and Crime Commissioner do?

Before we move on I need to tell you what a Police and Crime Commissioner does:

A Police and Crime Commissioner's job is to bring the police and the people together by finding out what people want from the police and making sure the Chief Constable delivers it. We are lucky that our police force is recognised for high performance and our Chief Constable is very ready to be held to account for the work they do. I am responsible for the efficiency and effectiveness of Northumbria Police and accordingly I hold the budget on your behalf.

I am proud to have as my Deputy, Mark Dennett. He is a former senior police officer who shares my passion to deliver excellent policing and community safety services to you.

Crime prevention is the way forward and this cannot be achieved without close working with your local councils, Community Safety and Criminal Justice Partnerships. Therefore as Commissioner I am involved in a lot of partnership working with the six councils in Northumbria and with many other groups and organisations.

I have a duty to support national requirements such as sending officers to the riots in 2011 and the Olympics; this includes supporting national priorities such as tackling child exploitation and organised crime as outlined in the Strategic Policing Requirement. That is as well as carrying out the local job.

Another thing the Commissioner must do is tell local people about the policing of their area, how well their local force is performing, how to get in touch and how to influence our local priorities. You can find out more information about this at www.northumbria-pcc.gov.uk.

You can find out more information about the role of the Commissioner by visiting www.homeoffice.gov.uk/police/police-crime-commissioners

What is the Police and Crime Plan?

The Commissioner has to write a five year Police and Crime Plan by the end of March 2013.

The police will follow this Plan and I will hold them to account through it. It will be the road map to the best policing in our area.

Many of you have helped me to get priorities right by responding to our survey or in other ways letting me know what you think Northumbria Police do well and where we need to get them to improve.

We won't get everything right at once but I will be keeping in touch with you to make sure that things are getting better and to make changes to the Plan if we need to do.

The Police and Crime Panel

Two councillors from each of our six local authorities and two independent members make up the Police and Crime Panel whose role is to scrutinise how I do my job but in a way which supports me to work effectively. The Panel meets bi-monthly in public.

You can find out more information about the role of the Police and Crime Panel by visiting www.homeoffice.gov.uk/police/police-crime-commissioners/partners/police-and-crime-panels

If you would like to read about the work of the Northumbria Police and Crime Panel please visit my website for further information www.northumbria-pcc.gov.uk or contact Mike Aynsley: michaelaynsley@gateshead.gov.uk

2. Northumbria at a Glance

Our wonderful territory!

Northumbria stretches for more than 2,000 square miles, from the Scottish border to County Durham; from the Pennines to the North East coast. It is made up of the boroughs of North and South Tyneside, Sunderland, Newcastle, Gateshead and the County of Northumberland. Northumberland's rural area will need special focus since it has different needs from the urban areas.

There are 663,061 households in Northumbria, 33% of the population is aged 20-44 year old whilst 17% is aged over 65.

29% of families (181,208) have someone with a long term health problem or disability.

Almost 95% of the population is white while 5% (77,106) are from minority ethnic groups, mainly Asian or Asian British (3%).

69% of Northumbria people identified with a recognised religion. 66% said that they were Christian, 2% are Muslim and many other religions were also followed in smaller numbers.

Northumbria has three large shopping centres - the MetroCentre, Eldon Square and The Bridges and has four universities - Northumbria, Newcastle, Sunderland and the Open University in the North.

Alnwick

Northumbria Police is the 6th largest force in the country with six Area Commands, 13 Specialist Departments, 3,760 police officers and 1,400 police staff. There are 297 Special Constables (we need more) and 397 Police Community Support Officers.

In a typical day Northumbria Police:

- Receives 3,395 phone calls;
- Handles 628 "999" calls;
- Deals with 1,539 incidents;
- Investigates 207 crimes;
- Makes 187 arrests;
- Travels 44,000 miles;
- Records 154 sets of fingerprints; and
- Takes 39 DNA samples.

The Office of Police and Crime Commissioner has a relatively small number of staff working with me in my role of making Northumbria Police accountable to you and to help me to work with my statutory and other partners.

3. Shaping the Plan

A lot of work and consultation has been undertaken with local authorities, professionals and all parts of the community to make sure that this Plan meets the policing needs of people in Northumbria:

Northumbria Police - Complete an annual assessment of crime, linked to changes taking place locally and nationally. From this assessment they can forecast the likely levels of crime and disorder the coming year may bring.

Safer Communities Survey - Northumbria Police in partnership with the six local councils conduct a continuous telephone survey with the public in Northumbria, speaking to over 15,000 of you each year. This gives a significant indication of your satisfaction with the police and councils response to community safety and what your policing priorities are.

Community Safety Partnerships - The Probation Trust, Fire and Rescue Service, local authorities and the Clinical Commissioning Group, together with the Police are the 'Responsible Authorities' that make up Community Safety Partnerships. The partnerships have shared their local priorities with me and I have used those to help shape my Plan.

Public Consultation Survey - During January we did a survey seeking your views on what my crime and policing priorities should be. Over 3,500 people completed the survey online and I met many more people when I was out and about on the streets of Northumbria.

I also use Twitter and Facebook to connect with you and the feedback and comments I receive helps shape my thinking.

Advisory Groups - I have set up Advisory Groups drawn from the communities which are protected by the Equality Act 2010. They consist of Age, Gender, Religion and Belief, Disability, Black Minority Ethnic (BME) and Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender (LGBT). I have also established a Victims Group. All of the groups have met with me at least once and will do so regularly.

Here are some of the issues and themes from that consultation

Northumbria Police

"Crime and anti-social behaviour are going down but alcohol related crime and disorder remain a priority."

Community Safety Partnerships

"Anti-social behaviour, alcohol and drugs and reducing re-offending are local priorities."

Advisory Groups

Age: Elderly "have concerns about night-time travelling on the Metro."
Youth are "concerned about the poor perception of young people even though they are the most likely to be victims of crime."

LGBT: "We find poor communication by Northumbria Police and can find it hard to trust them."

Gender: "We are still concerned about levels of violence against women."

BME: "We are very keen to work more closely with the police."

Victims: "First response by police can lack sensitivity and the whole court experience can be poor."

Religion and Belief: "It would be good if officers were trained in basic cultural issues around non-Christian faith groups."

Disability: "Police don't always identify that people have problems such as autism, learning difficulties or mental illness." The wider disabled community would like to stay in touch better with local officers.

Safer Communities Survey, top three priorities

- Young people being drunk, rowdy or a nuisance
- Rubbish or litter lying around
- Vandalism, graffiti or deliberate damage

Public Consultation Survey, top five priorities

- Violence against women & children
- Alcohol or drug related crime
- Violent crime
- Anti-social behaviour
- Burglary

4. Police and Crime Objectives

My police and crime objectives have been developed to meet what the communities in Northumbria say they need. Northumbria Police has delivered broad and wide-ranging services to an excellent level for many years, and this will continue as before. My particular focus will be in the areas you have told me are your priorities.

Putting Victims First

Why is this important?

A high percentage of victims of crime are satisfied with the service they receive from Northumbria Police and agree that they are taken seriously. Concerns are often around being sympathetic, managing expectation and keeping people updated on the progress of their case. Being a victim of crime can undermine a person's confidence, make people unhappy and in some cases make them frightened. It can therefore colour a person's whole outlook on life.

The importance of the 'first responder' was highlighted by victims groups and how this contact could be improved. It is also the case that whilst victims of crime are satisfied with the service received, victims of anti-social behaviour are less so.

How we'll make a difference, our commitment to you:

- Ensure the most vulnerable victims of crime and anti-social behaviour are identified and they are provided with personal support and firm action.
- Involve victims and their views in training and shaping the response of police and community safety partners.
- Ensure victims of crime and anti-social behaviour are kept fully informed on the progress of their investigation.
- Develop a specific tailored approach to victims of personal crimes like burglary, hate crime and anti-social behaviour, including restorative justice.

- Work with the Local Criminal Justice Board to improve how victims and witnesses experience court.

What will be achieved?

- Improved victim satisfaction.
- Empowerment of victims and victims groups in shaping training and responses.
- The most vulnerable are recognised and receive an enhanced service.
- Regular feedback and advice to the Commissioner by victims.
- Improved training for police officers and staff.

Dealing with Anti-social Behaviour

Why is this important?

Anti-social behaviour (ASB) affects anyone and everyone. Things like damage and graffiti or drunken youths in our neighbourhoods seem as if they are only a nuisance at first but if they are not stopped they can have long lasting poor effects on people's quality of life. We have listened to you and understand that this is a very important issue that must be addressed.

Recorded anti-social behaviour has fallen year on year, however; it is still your main priority.

It amounts to 20% of all calls to the police and 18% of those incidents are alcohol related. Police and Community Safety Partners are committed to dealing with ASB.

How we'll make a difference, our commitment to you:

- Every victim of anti-social behaviour will be contacted personally and their concerns investigated.
- Record every repeat incident of anti-social behaviour and develop a case history so attending officers are fully informed.
- Provide victims of anti-social behaviour who feel targeted and all vulnerable victims with tailor-made support and real understanding.
- Neighbourhood Policing Teams and Community Safety Partnerships will engage with the victim in stopping the problem.

- The Commissioner intends the Chief Constable to use all the powers available to the police to tackle anti-social behaviour and will encourage other local partners to do the same. Where alcohol is an issue we will encourage a positive approach to tackling the problem.

What will be achieved?

- Fewer victims of ASB - though we will encourage reporting.
- Improved satisfaction for victims of ASB.
- Those most vulnerable will receive service that better meets their needs.
- Action will be taken against offenders.

Domestic and Sexual Abuse

Why is this important?

We have listened to your views that this is a very important issue that must be tackled. There are around 28,000 reports of domestic violence in Northumbria each year, this equates to an average of 2,270 incidents per month and 2,000 victims every month. These are shockingly high figures and it is clear that more must be done to address and prevent this violence. Rape and other serious sexual assaults, often committed by partners or people known to their victims are also high.

How we'll make a difference, our commitment to you:

- As Northumbria's Commissioner, I will take an active personal lead on this issue.
- Within my first year of office I will develop an integrated strategy on all aspects of violence against women and girls and will also ensure that the minority of victims who are men suffering from these crimes are equally supported.
- Police will do all they can to make reporting of domestic and sexual violence as straightforward as possible. All frontline and specialist officers will have training, led by survivors.

- Police will listen to victims and take action to support them and make them safe even when no crime has been committed or no prosecution is wanted. This will include offering to connect them with a local specialist support group.
- An experienced Independent Domestic/Sexual Violence Advisor will be offered as a supporter and advocate to each high risk complainant.
- All incidents of domestic and sexual abuse and violence will be investigated. Police systems will ensure that repeat victims and perpetrators are identified and response officers are fully informed of the history.

- We will initiate work with the public and other authorities to make early intervention the norm, and to change attitudes and behaviours.
- We will pilot preventative projects to promote active police monitoring of perpetrators.

What will be achieved?

- A reduction in sexual and domestic abuse.
- An overall better service for victims and those affected by domestic and sexual abuse.
- More confidence in the reporting of domestic and sexual abuse.
- Better trained 'first responders' and specialist police.
- Improved victim experience through the criminal justice process.

Reducing Crime

Why is this important?

Northumbria has one of the lowest crime rates in the country; crime continues to fall year on year. Last year saw over a 10% reduction (6,700 less crimes). The risk of being a victim of crime in Northumbria is very low. However it is important to continue to seek to reduce crime and some types of crime cause particular concern. Violent crime, house burglary and hate crime have all been raised as crimes which can impact badly, in a personal way, on the victim. Alcohol related crime is a specific issue as alcohol continues to feature in a high percentage of crimes. In the widespread communities of Northumberland there are specifically rural offences which can have a serious impact upon livelihoods and the visibility of policing remains an issue.

How we'll make a difference, our commitment to you:

- Promote crime prevention to reduce crime and its impact and cost.
- Work with Community Safety Partnerships to cut crime and re-offending and therefore cut the number of victims of crime.
- Bring Community Safety Partnerships closer together across borders to optimise reducing and preventing crime.
- Enhance the investigation of serious violence, burglary, hate crime and rural crime to solve it and deter offenders.
- Boost victim support for these kinds of crime so that victims will feel able to pursue their case to court and obtain satisfaction and justice.

- Target alcohol related crime and disorder because of its prevalence and its impact upon communities.

What will be achieved?

- Fewer crimes and victims of crime.
- Improved police and partnership response to specific crimes.
- Specific intervention and response to alcohol related crime and disorder.

Community Confidence

Why is this important?

If the public is not confident in the policing and community safety services they receive, they may suffer unnecessary fear of crime.

By speaking to people in communities and promoting the good work being done on their behalf, police and others can provide information and reassurance.

This simple engagement can help build relationships, increase communication between police and public and give a positive message to the law abiding majority. We all want to feel safe and supported in our homes and communities.

How we'll make a difference, our commitment to you:

- The police will engage with communities and build relationships.
- They will be highly visible in communities; contact with the police will be a positive experience for the public.
- The police will address your local road safety concerns.
- We will monitor and improve how complaints against the police are handled, with the availability of independent mediation.
- We will drive the implementation of a Neighbourhood Management Model between police and community partners to boost joint working on anti-social behaviour and reducing re-offending.

- The police will focus relentlessly on those involved in organised crime causing the most harm in our communities, in particular those involved in the supply of drugs.

What will be achieved?

- A better informed confident community.
- A greater understanding of what the police and Community Safety Partners do about community safety problems.
- Improved satisfaction with the community safety services received.
- Awareness that the Commissioner is always available to hear views and suggestions and will scrutinise fearlessly on the public's behalf.

5. Delivering the Plan 'together we can'

I will provide clear, strong leadership to achieve the police and crime objectives outlined in this plan and will work closely with the Chief Constable, the local authorities, the community and voluntary sector and other organisations and partners to ensure we achieve our vision for policing in Northumbria.

Delivering the right services, to the right people at the right time is very important to us. We believe in equality and we know that in our diverse world this means understanding people's different needs and avoiding a one size fits all approach to what we do. We will ask the public themselves to be involved in enhancing the design and delivery of these services, from their own experience where it is right to do so.

Working with others

One of the most important ways the plan will be delivered is through the work of the Chief Constable and Northumbria

Police. This is the Chief Constable's commitment to you: "This plan will allow me to continue to deliver the very best of policing services to you. I fully support the priorities within it."

We will work with the Community Safety Partnerships and the Local Criminal Justice Board to deliver first class services.

There will be issues on which we can work with other Police and Crime Commissioners in the region and with national crime fighting agencies to help us deliver our police and crime objectives.

Community Safety

All Home Office grants to Community Safety Partnerships have ceased, and I have a new fund of £2.789m for community safety projects across Northumbria.

From this, for 2013-14 I will fund each of the six Northumbria Youth Offending Teams, who contribute strongly to reducing youth crime, £30,000 each; allocate approximately 80% of last years funding to each of the six Northumbria Community Safety Partnerships, on condition that they will support external monitoring and scrutiny of their work and agree and assist the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner to increase cross-boundary working this year.

The remaining £434,620 will fund further cross-Northumbria community safety work linked to my priorities from the voluntary and community sector or the Community Safety Partnerships during the year.

6. Monitoring the Plan 'making sure it gets done'

I will monitor and review the work of the Chief Constable on your behalf and will ensure that you receive the service from the police that you have been promised in this plan.

To make sure this plan is delivered I will look at the work of Northumbria Police in a number of ways by:

- Going out and about, talking to local communities about their experiences.
- Discussing with PCC Advisory Groups - covering the characteristics of age, gender, disability, faith, race and Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender (LGBT) and victims.
- Holding two-weekly meetings and quarterly performance meetings with the Chief Constable.
- Attending monthly Northumbria Police Strategic Management Board.
- Working with the Northumbria Police and Crime Panel.
- Looking closely at inspection results from Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary, the Independent Police Complaints Commission and findings from external audits and media coverage.
- Considering what the public are telling us through surveys such as the Safer Communities Survey and User Satisfaction Survey.

7. Staying in Touch

I want to let you know about our progress to deliver this plan, and I want you to tell me how you think we are doing.

I have set up the following ways to help us do this:

- Email address: enquiries@northumbria-pcc.gov.uk
- Website: www.northumbria-pcc.gov.uk
- Twitter account: www.twitter.com/northumbriapcc
- Facebook page: www.facebook.com/Vera.Baird.QC

Using these interactive ways, I will keep you up to date with the work I am doing to ensure the very best policing services in Northumbria. I will keep you up to date with key decisions I have made and I will ask you to tell me what you think about certain policing and crime issues.

I will also get out and about and talk to local communities and organisations about our progress to deliver this plan and will talk about how we can best work together to make our communities safer and feel safer.

If you would prefer to write to me, you can write to:
Vera Baird QC, Office of the Police and Crime
Commissioner, Victory House, Balliol Business Park,
Benton Lane, Newcastle upon Tyne,

8. Resourcing the Plan 'paying for it'

To read my Medium Term Financial Strategy and budget for 2013-14 visit:
www.northumbria-pcc.gov.uk

I will do my best to ensure there are enough resources available to enable all of the commitments in the plan to be delivered to you and your communities.

The Plan will be delivered in the most efficient manner possible providing excellent value for money for all the communities of Northumbria.

Northumbria Police receive diverse funding but the two main sources are central Government and the part of Council Tax which is allocated to the police called the 'police precept'.

The precept is set locally and Commissioner's are now responsible for setting the annual budget for their police force area. As I did this year I will always consult you on where to set the precept level, making clear my reasons for the amount of money I need to ask you to pay and responding to what you say. I will ensure that the consultation is open and fair and everyone will have an opportunity to express their views. This year 82% of those who responded agreed that they would pay up to 10 pence more per week for policing and next year we will try hard to increase the number of people who express a view. I increased the precept this year by an average of only six pence per week.

I am committed to making sure your money is spent in the most effective way possible and there are clear processes in place to enable you to monitor this.

The Medium Term Financial Strategy (MTFS) is key to ensuring that all revenue resources are directed towards delivery of the Plan, it describes the financial direction of my office and outlines the financial pressures over a three year period.

The Chief Constable's Delivery Plan

Introduction

As we look forward to the year ahead it's important to reflect on what we have achieved over the last 12 months. Northumbria Police continues to be one of the best performing forces in the country with crime falling by over 10% and public confidence and satisfaction in our service remaining high. This means thousands of fewer victims and thousands more families feeling safe in their homes and on our streets.

We can only achieve this with the continued support of our communities. We want people to feel confident that our officers and staff understand local issues and concerns, and to provide as many opportunities as possible for people to tell us what they need.

In Northumbria our neighbourhood policing approach will remain the foundation stone of our service. I have given my personal commitment to maintain those visible policing services the public value. Our neighbourhood teams, 24/7 response officers and the detectives who support them will continue to focus on the issues you tell us are your priorities. Our Police Community Support Officers will continue to be out and about, well known in their local communities and accessible to all.

We understand the issues that affect everyone's quality of life and, in particular, the impact they can have on those most vulnerable in our society. Anti social behaviour can cover a range of problems from noisy neighbours, people causing disorder to criminal behaviour. Tackling this will be one of our main priorities.

We will continue to drive down crime, deal with those people who bring harm to our neighbourhoods and improve our service to all victims by making it easier for them to report crime and by providing better support for them.

The Commissioner and I have discussed the priorities in this plan and I have put together a matching delivery plan to make sure that as a police service we achieve her targets in measurable steps. Together we can deliver safer communities.

I am looking forward to working closely with the Police and Crime Commissioner, local authorities, other partners and the public to ensure Northumbria remains one of the safest places to live, work and visit.

Sue Sim QPM, Chief Constable

“ Together we can deliver safer communities.”

Putting Victims First

Northumbria Police, working with partner agencies, has a responsibility to protect everyone in the communities we serve. In Northumbria, victims have high levels of satisfaction in the way in which their incident or crime is dealt with. The Force has achieved high levels of satisfaction, and compared to other forces in England and Wales, has the highest level of satisfaction in the country. However, we know there is room for improvement in how we deal with victims of anti-social behaviour, and we will work to improve it. We recognise we need to ensure that the most vulnerable in our communities, who are at most risk, are given a service that is based upon their individual needs.

Putting Victims First

Commissioners Objectives:

- Ensure the most vulnerable victims of crime and anti-social behaviour are identified and they are provided with personal support and firm action.

- Involve victims and their views in training and shaping the response of police and community safety partners.

Northumbria Police will:

- Identify, support and provide a high quality service to the most vulnerable victims of crime, anti social behaviour, intimidation or harassment.
- Assess a victim's vulnerability at the first point of contact.
- Ensure attending officers review vulnerability and associated needs and take appropriate action.
- Encourage and support the most vulnerable victims and their families to report offences.

- Talk to victims and victims' groups, listen to them, and develop appropriate training with their support.
 - Deliver victim led training to officers and staff who have contact with the public.

- Ensure victims of crime and anti-social behaviour are kept fully informed on the progress of their investigation.
 - Agree with victims on how they want to be updated. Officers will discuss and agree with each victim how often and in which way they want to be kept informed.
- Develop a specific tailored approach to victims of personal crimes like burglary, hate crime and anti-social behaviour, including restorative justice.
 - Make sure each victim is considered as an individual and provided with a service which is tailored to meet their needs.
 - Further develop restorative justice options in agreement with victims.
- Work with the Local Criminal Justice Board to improve how victims and witnesses experience court.
 - Speak to all victims and witnesses, and where agreed with them refer to partner and voluntary victim support agencies.
 - We will monitor these referrals and report through the Local Criminal Justice Board.

We will measure our success by:

1. Maintaining the Force's national position (1st) for the satisfaction of victims with the overall service provided by the police.
2. Maintaining the Force's national position (1st) for the satisfaction of victims with the action taken by the police.
3. Maintaining the Force's national position (1st) for the satisfaction of victims with how well they were kept informed of progress.

Dealing with ASB

We recognise that anti-social behaviour covers a wide range of activities that can affect the quality of life for those living in our communities. We are committed to tackling anti-social behaviour, working with partners to address underlying causes and to ensure we deal appropriately with those responsible and provide support to victims and witnesses. We want every member of our community to feel confident that we are dealing with anti-social behaviour and to enjoy their homes and neighbourhoods safely and peacefully. To this end, we will overhaul our service delivery to focus it clearly from the victims' perspective.

In the last four years, incidents of anti-social behaviour have fallen by 38%, equivalent to 54,320 incidents.

Dealing with ASB

Commissioners Objectives:

- Every victim of anti-social behaviour will be contacted personally and their concerns investigated.
- Record every repeat incident of anti-social behaviour and develop a case history so attending officers are fully informed.

Northumbria Police will:

- Make sure attendance at anti-social behaviour incidents is prioritised according to the needs of the victim.
 - Ensure victims are re-contacted by officers or staff at a frequency that the victims have agreed.
- Identify vulnerable and repeat victims at the first point of contact to make sure that we are able to give the best response.
 - Identify repeat victims based on whether they have previously been a victim of crime or anti-social behaviour within a 12 month period.
 - Provide officers attending the most vulnerable victims with a case history to ensure that they receive the best service.
 - Work towards developing an automated updating system for officers and staff.

We will measure our success by:

1. Ensuring all of the most vulnerable victims of anti-social behaviour victims are attended within one hour.
2. Maintaining the percentage of victims of anti-social behaviour who are satisfied with the overall service provided by the police to at least 90%.
3. Maintaining the percentage of victims of anti-social behaviour who are satisfied with action taken by the police to at least 90%.

- Provide victims of anti-social behaviour who feel targeted and all vulnerable victims with tailor-made support and real understanding.
 - Make sure our contact handlers and operational staff are trained to specifically identify vulnerable callers.
 - Deliver a service that meets individual victim's needs.
 - Actively encourage and promote people to come forward and report anti social behaviour.
- Neighbourhood Policing Teams and Community Safety Partnerships will engage with the victim in stopping the problem.
 - Make sure Neighbourhood Inspectors prioritise anti-social behaviour in all neighbourhoods.
 - Develop and agree bespoke plans with partners and victims to resolve local issues.
- The Commissioner intends the Chief Constable to use all the powers available to the police to tackle anti-social behaviour and will encourage Community Safety Partnerships to do the same.
 - Make use of all anti-social behaviour powers, as appropriate.

4. Increasing the percentage of victims of anti-social behaviour who are satisfied with how well they have been kept informed of progress to at least 90%.
5. Maintaining the percentage of victims of anti-social behaviour who are satisfied with arrival time to at least 95%.
6. Monitoring the use of all available anti-social behaviour powers.

Domestic and Sexual Abuse

Offences such as domestic and sexual abuse are historically under reported with victims often fearing the consequences of making a report to the police, or not having enough confidence in the criminal justice system to make contact with the police. We will ensure that those who are at most risk, the vulnerable in our communities, will be given the support and service they need.

Domestic and Sexual Abuse

Commissioners Objectives:

- As Northumbria's Commissioner, I will take an active personal lead on this issue.
- Within my first year of office I will develop an integrated strategy on all aspects of violence against women and girls and will also ensure that the minority of victims who are men who suffer from these crimes are equally supported.

Northumbria Police will:

- Support the Police and Crime Commissioner.
- Deliver the priorities as outlined in the strategy.

- Police will do all they can to make reporting of domestic and sexual violence as straightforward as possible. All frontline and specialist officers will have training, led by survivors.
 - Encourage and support all victims and their families to report offences.
 - Improve and extend the use of safe reporting centres.
 - Deliver victim led training to officers and staff who have contact with the public.
 - Deliver training in respect of harassment and stalking.
- Police will listen to victims and take action to support them and make them safe even when no crime has been committed or no prosecution is wanted. This will include offering to connect them with a local specialist support group.
 - Work with partner agencies to ensure appropriate safeguarding measures are in place.
 - Speak to all victims, and where agreed with them, refer to partner and voluntary victim support agencies.
 - Victims will receive high quality support regardless of whether a crime has been committed or prosecution is wanted, including referral to other agencies.

- An experienced Independent Domestic/Sexual Violence Advisor will be offered as a supporter and advocate to each high risk complainant.
 - Offer an Independent Domestic/Sexual Violence Advisor to support each high risk victim.
- All incidents of domestic and sexual abuse and violence will be investigated. Police systems will ensure that repeat victims and perpetrators are identified and response officers are fully informed of the history.
 - Provide officers attending with a case history, to ensure that victims receive the best service.
 - Investigate all incidents of domestic and sexual abuse and violence.
 - Consider victimless prosecutions in appropriate circumstances.

We will measure our success by:

1. Ensuring 100% of high risk victims have been offered an Independent Domestic/Sexual Violence Advisor.
2. Monitoring and improving the level of referrals of victims to partner agencies in order to reduce the victim risk.

- We will initiate work with the public and other authorities to make early intervention the norm, and to change attitudes and behaviours.
 - Promote and deliver an increased understanding of what is domestic abuse.
 - Target offenders at the earliest opportunity.
- We will pilot preventative projects to promote active police monitoring of perpetrators.
 - Engage fully with the pilot and the specific monitoring of perpetrators.

3. Delivering 100% compliance with the Domestic Abuse, Stalking and Harassment toolkit and risk assessment for all victims of domestic abuse.
4. Ensuring that all high risk victims of domestic violence are supported through the Multi-Agency Risk Assessment Conference (MARAC) process.

Reducing Crime

By preventing crime and effectively dealing with incidents, we will continue to make the Northumbria Police area a safe place to live, work and visit and increase public satisfaction and confidence in policing.

Total recorded crime has reduced by over 10% compared to last year, equivalent to about 8,250 fewer victims. In the past six years, crime has fallen by 47%, and as a result the risk of being a victim of crime in Northumbria is one of the lowest in the country. The percentage of crimes that are solved is one of the highest in the country, with over 44% of crimes being resolved.

Reducing Crime

Commissioners Objectives:

- Promote crime prevention to reduce crime and its impact and cost.

- Work with Community Safety Partnerships to cut crime and re-offending and therefore cut the number of victims of crime.

- Bring Community Safety Partnerships closer together across borders to optimise reducing and preventing crime.

Northumbria Police will:

- Reduce crime and re-offending.
- Improve public awareness of the action that they can take to reduce the risk of becoming a victim of crime.
- Ensure that Neighbourhood Policing Teams work with other agencies to minimise the risk of crime occurring.
- Work with partners to identify and tackle those individuals who pose the greatest threat to communities.

- Work with community safety partners to reduce the level of crime.
- Work with criminal justice partners to reduce the likelihood of re-offending.

- Support the Police and Crime Commissioner as a member of the Community Safety Partnerships.

- Enhance the investigation of serious violence, burglary, hate crime and rural crime to solve it and deter offenders.
 - Ensure that all crimes are investigated thoroughly and take positive action against offenders.
- Boost victim support for these kinds of crime so that victims will feel able to pursue their case to court and obtain satisfaction and justice.
 - Speak to all victims, and where agreed with them, refer to partner and voluntary victim support agencies.

We will measure our success by:

1. Reducing total recorded crime by at least 1%.
2. Reducing violent crime by at least 1%.
3. Reduce alcohol related violent crime by at least 1%.
4. Reducing burglary dwelling offences by at least 1%.

- Target alcohol related crime and disorder because of its prevalence and its impact upon communities.
- Reduce alcohol related violent crime.
- Work with partner agencies to tackle alcohol and drug misuse and related crime and disorder.
- Work with local councils and licensing authorities to take a strong stance on the irresponsible management of licensed premises.
- Tackle, with partners, the sale of alcohol to and for young people, increasing the use of enforcement action to stop under-age drinking.

5. Increasing the total crime positive outcome ¹rate to at least 45%.

6. Increasing the positive outcome rate for hate crimes to at least 58%.

¹ Positive outcomes include offences disposed of by means of charge, summons, TIC, caution, penalty notice for disorder (PND), restorative justice and cannabis warning.

Community Confidence

We will encourage communities to tell us what concerns them so we can understand and tackle the issues affecting them and build public trust and confidence.

We have continued to improve the safety of people in the Northumbria Police area. Results from our local surveys tell us that more people feel safe in their local area than last year. Likewise, a greater percentage of people agree that we understand the issues that affect their community and that we are tackling the issues that matter to them. Through neighbourhood policing we have committed to actively address those quality of life issues that matter to the public, including anti-social use of the roads and road safety issues.

Community Confidence

Commissioners Objectives:

- The police will engage with communities and build relationships.
- They will be highly visible in communities; contact with the police will be a positive experience for the public.

Northumbria Police will:

- Raise public awareness on how to contact our Neighbourhood Policing Teams.
 - Work with communities to address local crime and disorder issues.
- Promote opportunities for the public to be involved in local policing (Neighbourhood Watch, Volunteers, Special Constables and Cadets).
 - Improve and extend the use of safe reporting centres.
 - Make sure our officers, Police Community Support Officers and Special Constables are available at convenient locations and times, to listen, provide advice and respond to local concerns.
 - Ensure that Neighbourhood Policing Teams, which include Police and Community Support Officers, will remain on patrol in their designated area dealing with local issues.

We will measure our success by:

1. Maintaining the Force's national position (1st) for the percentage of people who think the police do a good or excellent job.
2. Maintaining the Force's national position (1st) for the percentage of people who think the police can be relied upon when needed.
3. Maintaining the percentage of people who feel safe living in their local area by at least 96%.

- The police will address your local road safety concerns.
 - Educate drivers by fully utilising driver improvement and speed awareness schemes and introduce a Driver Advice scheme for those who commit minor traffic offences.
 - Address those local issues of the inappropriate and anti-social use of motor vehicles (including speeding and off road motor cycle use) identified by our communities.
- We will monitor and improve how complaints against the police are handled, with the availability of independent mediation.
 - Work with the Police and Crime Commissioner to improve how we manage complaints.
 - Work with the Police and Crime Commissioner to introduce independent mediation.

4. Increasing the percentage of people who believe the level of patrol in their area is about right to at least 60%.
5. Measuring the amount of patrol time by Neighbourhood Policing Teams and PCSOs in their neighbourhood.
6. Improve the Force's national position (6th) for the percentage of people who agree that the police understand the issues that affect their area.

- We will drive the implementation of a Neighbourhood Management Model between police and community partners to boost joint working on anti-social behaviour and reducing re-offending.
 - Ensure Area Commanders and Neighbourhood Policing Teams work with local partners to keep neighbourhoods safe.
 - Wherever possible co-locate our resources with partners.
 - Work with partner agencies to address the issues that are of most concern to our communities.
- The police will focus relentlessly on those involved in organised crime causing the most harm in our communities, in particular those involved in the supply of drugs.
 - Ensure that Neighbourhood Policing Teams, supported by specialist resources, take positive action to target those that cause the greatest harm to our communities.

7. Measure the satisfaction of complainants with how their complaints are managed.
8. Reducing the number of complaint appeals which are upheld.
9. Establishing a baseline with the aim to reduce the percentage of people who say that the anti-social use of vehicles is a problem in their local area.

Deliver the Strategic Policing Requirement

As well as dealing with local issues we must also tackle more serious and organised crime. This often crosses geographic boundaries and requires police forces to work closely together. We must also support the national capability to respond to these issues. Police and Crime Commissioners and Chief Constables have a legal duty to have due regard to meet the Strategic Policing Requirement as published by the Home Secretary.

This contains five national threats, identified as:

- Terrorism
 - Civil emergencies
 - Organised crime
 - Public order
 - Cyber crime

We will:

- Deliver the capability and capacity to meet the Strategic Policing Requirement.
- Target drug trafficking, money laundering and other serious crimes through intelligence-led policing.
- Maintain the appropriate level of trained resources to meet our national and regional requirements.

Glossary

Find out more about some of the terms used in this document.

Community Safety Partnerships

By law local organisations and agencies must come together to improve community safety and reduce crime and disorder. As a minimum, partnerships should include the local authority, local health service, Probation, Fire and Rescue and the Police; these organisations are called 'responsible authorities'.

Criminal Justice System

The system of law enforcement that is involved in apprehending, prosecuting, defending, sentencing, and imprisoning those suspected of committing a crime.

First Responders

The first Police officer or Police Community Support Officer who attends the victim's address and including police telephone call takers.

Hate Crime

A hate crime is any criminal offence that is motivated by hostility or prejudice based upon the victim's personal characteristics such as disability, race, age, gender, religion or belief, sexual orientation or transgender identity.

Independent Domestic Violence Advisors (IDVAs)

IDVAs are trained specialists that help keep victims and their families safe from harm from violent partners or family.

Local Criminal Justice Board (LCJB)

Criminal justice agencies such as the Police, courts, prison service and Probation Trust form the LCJB working together to deliver the different stages of the criminal justice process.

Rural Crime

Crime committed in rural communities that causes a significant impact such as theft of livestock, domestic, farm machinery and any other crime which impact upon the livelihood of an individual or community.

Statutory Responsibilities

The things the Police and Crime Commissioner is required to do by law.

Strategic Policing Requirement

A national policing demand placed on all Police and Crime Commissioners.
