

Proud to serve

Northumberland

Keeping our communities safe is our number one priority. Despite huge government reductions to our budget, Northumbria Police continues to be one of the best performing forces in the country.

The way we tackle anti-social behaviour has been recorded as outstanding and we are working closely with local residents to deliver innovative ways with this issue.

We have worked hard in providing better services for victims of crime and will continue to improve. It's great news that the latest User Satisfaction Survey names Northumbria as the top force in the country for victim service: a score of 92.2%.

Here in Northumberland, we have relocated neighbourhood police to bring them to the heart of the community. Officers from Blyth Neighbourhood Policing Team, for example, have moved to a new base in the town. This move comes as the force seeks to make sure officers are based in locations which are easily accessible to local people and offer value for money from the public purse.

We are always seeking new ways to make savings so we can afford to keep police in our neighbourhoods. You have told us loud and clear this is what you want and we are dedicated to delivering the priorities you gave us for the police and crime plan.

You told us your priorities and we put them in the Commissioner's police and crime plan

In Northumberland we are:

Putting victims first

We support victims to cope and recover. Victims First Northumbria also means victims can receive support whether they have reported the crime to the police or not.

Dealing with Anti-Social Behaviour (ASB)

Our team provides outstanding service and visits every vulnerable victim of ASB. We are working closely with partners to use new Community Protection Notices to tackle problems and improve the quality of life for residents.

Tackling domestic and sexual abuse

Our police are the best trained in the country on these issues and all victims will get a strong and supportive response. We are also investing in work to tackle Child Sexual Exploitation.

Reducing crime

We tackle opportunistic thieves and burglars with great crime prevention initiatives and quick arrests. Officers in Northumberland have achieved some strong results recently.

Community confidence

Neighbourhood policing is key. We will continue to have officers on the streets, visiting schools and attending meetings – to find out what issues matter the most to you. At present, drugs, 'legal' highs and alcohol-related crime are all priority issues being tackled by our neighbourhood teams.

Creating opportunities

Keen to provide opportunities to help young people succeed in the world of work, Vera Baird launched an apprentice scheme for her office and her first recruit was 19-year old Kevin Payne from Jarrow. Since then two more local apprentices have followed in Kevin's footsteps.

Much needed support

A new special partnership between Northumbria's Police and Crime Commissioner and the High Sheriff of Northumberland means that special awards are being made available to organisations that help keep Northumberland free from crime.

Engaging with communities

Cramlington Voluntary Youth Project has benefited from the Commissioner's Community Fund and has been providing workshops to teach young people about keeping safe and what to do in emergencies. The project aims to build community confidence.

Did you know?

Northumbria has over
3,500 Police Officers
210 PCSOs
250 Special Constables

Despite an increase in crime, in a typical day Northumbria Police deals with:

142 arrests
500 emergency calls
1000 non-emergency calls
40 stop and searches
200 ASB incidents
81 domestic abuse incidents

So, policing isn't just about catching criminals, their typical day is spent supporting residents in so many valuable ways.

Right across Northumberland, your police officers are working with the local authority and other partners to ensure you receive the best service day in day out.

Northumbria's Police and Crime Commissioner Vera Baird is committed to keeping your neighbourhood safe and she is keen to hear from you about how we can help.
